Last Month

The 2nd Annual Auction and Christmas Party was a huge success. Many members contributed to the success by selling and/or donating items for the auction. The event benefited members getting a lot of good deals on equipment and the club profited handsomely from the proceeds. So well, that this year the club will not be holding its annual raffle for fundraising.

January Meeting, Speaker Jim Teeny

Jim Teeny started the Teeny Nymph Company on July 1, 1971 in hopes of entering into the fly fishing tackle world. Thirty years later he is still there and growing. With all the products that Jim offers, none has had a greater impact on the fly-fishing industry than his sinking fly lines. He also offers a wide range of floating and specialty fly lines and Temple Forks has introduced the Jim Teeny line of fly rods.

Afternoon Tying with Jim Teeny:

Jim will be the host for an afternoon of tying the day of the meeting, Thursday, Jan. 18th. The session will be held at the Plymouth Community Center from 1pm to about 4pm. If you are interested please email me at mike@mainlineflytyers.net or call 610-955-9885.

The size of the class will be limited to keep the afternoon informal and give the opportunity to talk one-on-one in a relaxed atmosphere with Jim. . (There will be a nominal fee $10 per person to cover the rent on the room).

February Meeting:

The speaker will be Bob Bonney, a Fish Commission WCO. He will talk about new regulations in PA and the area WCO's initiative to bring new people (particularly youth) into the sport.

This will be your chance to ask questions about the 2 Trout Season Opening Days. In case you're not aware the PA Fish Commission changed the rules for 2007. In the southeastern part of the state the opener is March 31st and the rest of the state opens on April 14. Read more about it at the fish commission website: <http://www.fish.state.pa.us/opendays.htm>

Fly of the Month Raffle - Black Stonefly

Kaufman's Black Stonefly

Hook: Mustad 9672, Nos. 4-12

Thread: Black 6/0 Unithread

Weight: Wraps of lead wire

Tails: Black biots

Rib: Black vinyl rib

Underbody: Black yarn

Abdomen: Black Iridescent dubbing

Wingcase: Fleximent treated turkey tail tied in three sections

Thorax: Black Iridescent dubbing

Antennae: Black biots

Tying Tips: (1) The dubbing is best tied with a dubbing loop, as it is pretty coarse and is a synthetic dubbing. (2) I tie the Kaufmanns with plenty of lead wire to weight it, and use appropriately colored yarn as an underbody and then go over it with the Iridescent in a dubbing loop, as this makes the tying go more quickly

There are several tying steps needed to tie one of these nymphs, and it is not a quick tie. It takes practice to get down the spacing and shape of the wingcases. However, the trout don't really care how neat the nymph is. They don't count very well either, so if you run out of room when tying in the wingcases just tie in two wingcases.

When tying the nymph, wrap the thread wraps fairly tightly to keep the body of the nymph firm. The Iridescent dubbing is tough stuff, and a strong tying thread is needed to hold things together when you are digging away at the dubbing to form the buggy appearance.

Finally, the black nymph is normally only tied from # 4 to #8; however, it can also be used to represent the early black stone, and so also tie the smaller sizes. Or for a quick tie for the early black stones – use a black fly nymph (what else?).
